Greeting in Islam

Lesson 1: What Does Greeting Mean?

A greeting is something that you say or do upon meeting someone or passing by them.

When we say meet,
we mean come together or come near.

Lesson 2: How the Islamic Greeting began.

Muslims have their own special way of greeting.

How do we know how to greet each other?

We can learn this by the Quraan or ahadith (or sayings) of Allah's Messenger, Prophet Muhammad ﷺ

Sit back while your Ummy, Abi, or teacher reads to you the story about the beginning of the Islamic, or Muslim, greeting.

Activity 1: Read about/Listen to How the Greeting Begin.

HOW THE SALAAM (GREETING) BEGAN.

Narrated Abu Hurairah [radhi-yAllâhu 'anhu]: The Prophet [sal-Allâhu 'alayhi wa sallam] said, "Allâh created Adam in His Image, sixty cubits (about 30 meters) in height. When He created him, He said (to him), 'Go and greet that group of angels sitting there, and listen what they will say in reply to you, for that will be your greeting and the greeting of your offspring.' Adam (went and) said, 'As-Salaamu 'Alaykum (peace be upon you).' They replied, 'As-Salaamu 'Alaykum wa Rahmatullah (Peace and Allâh's Mercy be on you).' So they increased 'wa Rahmatullah.' "

(Sahih Bukhari)

Lesson 3: The Islamic Greeting

Lesson 3a: What is the Islamic greeting?

Do you remember from the story or already know, what the proper Muslim greeting is?

The proper way to greet another Muslim is by saying:

As-salaamu Alaykum

السلام عليكم

Activity 1: Saying As-salaamu Alaykum

Practice saying, As-salaamu Alaykum correctly several times.

Be sure to speak clearly and slowly so that you say all the syllables or word parts.

Lesson 3b: Do I have to greet another Muslim?

It is a duty for one Muslim to greet another Muslim when he meets him.

Abu Hurairah said, "I heard the Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, say, 'The rights a Muslim has over another Muslim are five.' He was asked, "What are they?" He replied, "When he meets him, he should greet him, When he gives him an invitation, he should accept. When he asks him for advice, he should give him good counsel. When he sneezes and praises Allah, he should wish him mercy. When he is ill, he should visit him. When he dies, he should accompany him." (Bukhari, Al Adab Al Mufrad)

So, yes, you have to greet another Muslim!

At-Tufayl ibn Ubayy ibn Ka'b related that he used to visit 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar and would go with him to the market. He said, "When we went to the market, 'Abdullah ibn 'Umar did not pass by any rubbish collector nor merchant nor poor person nor anyone else without greeting them." (Bukhari)

Lesson 3c: How to return the greeting.

When someone greets you with a greeting, you return the greeting.

There are several ways you can return the greeting;

"wa Alaykum us salaam"
(and peace be upon you)

"Wa Alaykum us salaam wa rahmatullahi"
(and peace and the mercy of Allah be upon you)

"Wa Alaykum us salaam wa rahmatullahi wa barakatuhu"
(and peace and mercy of Allah and His blessings be upon you)

Although there are other ways to return the greeting from the sunnah, these are the most common ways to return the greeting.

'A'isha reported, "The Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, said, 'A'ish! This is Jibril who sends you greetings.' I said, 'And peace be upon him and the mercy of Allah and His blessings. You see what I do not see." By that she meant the Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace. (Bukhari)

So.....which way is better? According to the sunnah, these are all fine, insha Allah. But when you are returning a greeting keep this in mind:

Allah tells us in the Quraan (4:86) that which means: When you are greeted with a greeting, greet in return with what is better than it, or (at least) return it equally. Certainly, Allâh is Ever a Careful Account Taker of all things.

So, if someone says As-salaamu Alaykum, to return it with that which is better would be to say wa alaykum us salaam wa rahmatullahi or wa Alaykum us salaam wa rahmatullahi wa barakatuhu and Allah knows best.

Salim, the mawla of 'Abdullah ibn 'Amr, said, "When Ibn 'Umar was greeted, he returned it with increase. I came upon him sitting down and said, 'Peace be upon you,' and he said, 'Peace be upon you and the mercy of Allah.' Then I came another time and said, 'Peace be upon you and the mercy of Allah, and he said, 'Peace be upon you and the mercy of Allah and His blessings.' Then I came to him another time and said, 'Peace be upon you and the mercy of Allah and His blessings,' and he said, 'Peace be upon you and the mercy of Allah and His blessings and the best of His prayers.'"

Lesson 3d: What if I don't return the greeting?

Abu Hurayra said, "The most miserly of people is the person who is miserly with the greeting. The one who is cheated of good is the one who does not return it.

To be miserly means to be stingy and selfish.
But when we are miserly and do not return the greeting,
we are not just being stingy; we are missing out on blessings.

So remember:

RETURN A GREETING
GIVEN TO YOU!

Peace is one of the Names of Allah which Allah has placed on the earth. Extend it among you. When a man greets people and they answer him, then he has a higher degree than them because he reminds them of peace. If no one answers him, he will be answered by one who is better and more excellent. "" (Bukhari)

Lesson 3e: Do I have to greet someone I don't even know?

Greeting those you know and those you do not know

'Abdullah ibn 'Amr reported that a man said, "Messenger of Allah, which aspect of Islam is best?" He replied, "Feeding people and greeting those you know and those you do not know." (Bukhari)

So, yes,
greet those you know
as well as those you don't know!

Try this!

The next time (and anytime) you see a Muslim that you do not know, give them the salaam (greeting).

Lesson 4: Greeting First

Lesson 4a. Why is it Important to Greet First?

Suppose you come upon another Muslim, who should greet who first? Alhamdulillah, we have many instructions in the sunnah of the Prophet Muhammad (salla Allahu alayhi wa sallam)

But first of all, why is it important to greet first?

Jabir said, "Someone riding should greet someone walking, and someone walking should greet someone sitting down. When there are two people walking, the better of them is the one who gives the greeting first." (Bukhari)

Ibn 'Umar said that al-Agharr (who was a man from Muzayna and had been a Companion of the Prophet) was owed some measures of dates by a man from the Banu 'Amr ibn 'Awf who came to him many times. He said, "I went to the Prophet, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, and he sent Abu Bakr as-Siddiq with me." He continues, "Everyone we met greeted us. Abu Bakr said, 'Don't you know that when people give the greeting before us, they have the reward? Give the greeting before them and you will have the reward.'" (Bukhari)

So, the one who greet first gets the reward!

Try this!

The next time (and anytime) you see a Muslim that you do not know, give them the salaam (greeting). FIRST, insha Allah.

Lesson 4b: Who exactly should greet whom first?

There are some rules
you should know about who greets whom first:

1. The person riding should greet the person on foot (walking)
2. The person on foot (walking) should greet the person who is seated.
3. The smaller group should greet the large group.
4. The young person greets the older person first.

'Abdu'r-Rahman ibn Shibl said that he heard the Prophet, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, said, "The person riding should greet the person on foot. The person on foot should greet the person who is seated. The smaller group should greet the large. Whoever answers the greeting, that is for him. Whoever does not answer it, has nothing." (Bukhari)

Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, said, "The young person greets the old person, the person walking greets the person sitting down, and the small group greets the large group."(Bukhari)

5. When one of you comes to a gathering, he should give the greeting

Abu Hurairah reported that the Messenger of Allah, may Allah bless him and grant him peace, said, "When one of you comes to a gathering, he should give the greeting. If he leaves, he should give the greeting. Neither is more of a duty than the other."(Bukhari)

But, what if we are both walking?

Jabir said, "When two people walking meet, then the one who gives the greeting first is the better of them." (Bukhari)

Activity 1: Practice Greeting First

With a partner, practice giving the salaam in the appropriate way (first or returning it) in the following situations:

You are person 1 the first time through the "drills," then switch places with your partner and you are person 2.

Person 1: You are walking and come to Person 2 who is sitting

Person 1: You are riding and come to Person 2 who is walking

Person 1: You are part of a small group that comes to a larger group that includes Person 2.

Person 1: You enter a dars of people.

Person 1: You come across Person 2, who is an older brother/sister.

Now Switch Places.

Continue practicing and switching until you got it!

Lesson 5: Greetings Around the World

Around the world, there are many different non-Islamic greetings. In this lesson, we will take a look at some of them, but remember, Muslims greet Muslims with the Islamic greeting of "As Salaamu Alaykum."

Activity 5a. Words and Ways of Greeting around the World.

Polynesian greeting

Hongi (nose rubbing) is a traditional greeting among the Maori of New Zealand, as seen here. Rather than kissing on the cheek or shaking hands, they rub noses when they meet people. The rubbing of noses is found in other parts of Polynesia, as well as among the Inuit people of the Arctic.

Activity 5c. Geography and Greetings

Locate the countries from the last activity on the map and color them.

What do you notice about all of them? (Hint: what continent are they all on?)

Asia Asia Asia

What continent do you live on? Write it below: (ask for help if you need to)

How do people greet in your country? What words or gestures* do they make?

*Gesture = Motion of hands or body

Remember, there are many greetings around the world, but the greeting of the Muslim,
no matter what country you are from

is:

As-salaamu Alaykum

Extras:

Abu Hurairah said, "Whoever meets his brother should greet him. If a tree or wall comes between them and then he meets him, he should greet him on the other side." (Bukhari)

Al-Bara' ibn 'Azib said, "Part of the full greeting is to shake your brother's hand." (Bukhari)

End of Unit

سُبْحَانَكَ اللَّهُمَّ وَبِحَمْدِكَ أَشْهَدُ أَنْ
لَا إِلَهَ إِلَّا أَنْتَ أَسْتَغْفِرُكَ وَأَتُوبُ
إِلَيْكَ.

How perfect You are O Allah, and I praise You.
I bear witness that none has the right to be worshipped except You.
